

Medicinal Cannabis Leadership Program Guide

After huge success in Israel and subsequent expansion to the United States, Cann10 is bringing its world-renowned education program to Australia. The Medicinal Cannabis Leadership Program is the country's first ever full-scale education program in the exciting new field of medicinal cannabis.

The Program is ideal for anyone who wants to become an expert on medicinal cannabis science, industry, regulation, law, or commerce. Participants will include entrepreneurs, scientists, and professionals from health, medicinal cannabis, agricultural, life sciences and biotech industries.

No prior knowledge is required, and participants will be provided with preparatory reading material.

Facilitators and Contributors

The Program draws on world leaders and local experts across the cannabis supply chain. Our Facilitators and Contributors include*:

Testimonials

Professor Jon Watson – Dean, School of Medicine Faculty of Health, Deakin University

“It is with great satisfaction that I am able to endorse Cann10’s unique approach that takes in basic biomedical science, agriculture and cultivation, and also entrepreneurship. This is very unusual, but also fit for purpose.”

Lee Ben Yosef – Founder and CEO, Vapora

“The professional level of the speakers was outstanding. The course allows for networking...availability of lecturers at the end of the classes led to relationship and business meetings that would not have happened had I not met them at the course”

Irit Avisar – R.N, M.A, LL.B, Lawyer and Qualified Nurse

“I was impressed by the variety of subjects in the educational program. The course dealt with almost every aspect of the plant...the course allowed meetings with people who are connected to the field from different directions. Undoubtedly, the course has left a desire to go deeper into the subject”
